

New Request: Calculator

The sales people of Tyrannical Requests are happy now but they have an issue. Things don't add up! So their manager has decided that if they had a calculator readily available for them on the sale order form to sum things up, their issues will be resolved!

They have requested to add a simple calculator that can add things up. So there should be two inputs to put numbers in and then it should add up the 2 numbers and show it. Whenever an input changes, so should the result.